

Growing Up Wild

Emergency Contact Information

Growing up Wild is a camping and backpacking program where children sleep outdoors and in tents, and cooking is done using camp stoves and over camp fires. On some trips, the nearest professional medical care may be hours away. In the event an emergency occurs while a parent or guardian is traveling or otherwise unavailable, Growing Up Wild must be able to contact an alternate person designated by the parent to be an emergency contact. Please get permission from your designated alternate emergency contact before giving us their information.
